PANEL DISCUSSION ON "STROKES"

Every seat in the parish house of St. Gabriel's Church, Marion was filled at Tuesday night's panel discussion on "Strokes". The meeting was held under the auspices of the local personnel of the Massachusetts Heart Association with Dr. George S. Watson, internist, of Marion, as moderator, and projecting the highlights of this disease. In conjunction with this, an interesting reel of moving pictures was shown on the subject. It was entitled "Strokes and Restorative Measures".

Mrs. Anna Lipsitt, Heart Fund chairman for Marion, presided, and introduced Mr. Everett McCullough, executive of Southeastern Chapter Massachusetts Heart Association, who opened the program with a few remarks regarding the activitiy of the aforementioned. He said through fund raising the Heart Association has developed curative techniques for this dreaded ailment. Dr. Watson was then introduced who elaborated on this subject and graphically brought to the audience's attention the specialized work being done in the alleviation of this disease.

Dr. Bertram E. Howard of New Bedford, chief of the rehabilitation unit at St. Luke's Hospital, explained the progress being made in the treatment of "stroke" victims, which disease up to a few years ago was regarded incurable.

Assisting in the panel discussion were Mrs. Phyllis Wikander of Marion, R.N. social worker; Mrs. Fred Margolis, physiotherapist, of New Bedford; and Miss Janice McKeachern, R.N and rehabilitation instructor at St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford.

every penny if it pulls our collective promotional heads out of the sand.

MacDonald said that the World's Fair has given New England a close-up view of promotional activities of Florida, Belgium, Spain, West Virginia and other popular exhibits and "how they got that way".

"National Fair coverage in magazines, radio and TV of the Fair has virtually ignored the New England exhibit and with good reason," Mac Donald said.

"New England has done no advertising whatsoever of the pavilion, the public relations activity on a national basis has been nonexistent and we have no single popular attraction to bring people to our exhibit."

MacDonald blamed apathy, both public and official, as well as the lack of promotional know-how for producing a poorly-known exhibit.

"Apathy toward the tourist business in official circles is a luxury that New England cannot afford for its second largest business," the resort operator said.
